Dear Memory Saver,

We'd like to take a minute to thank you for considering our VHS to DVD transfer service and allowing us to help you preserve your precious memories. We truly appreciate the trust you place in us.

Our service will copy your home movie footage from the analog format VHS tape to the digital format DVD disc. Analog VHS taped footage degrades over time until it becomes virtually unwatchable even with controlled storage conditions. Digital DVD footage will be preserved arguably forever. Of course the disc can become damaged to an unusable state but with reasonable care it should last indefinitely.

Unfortunately, once the analog VHS footage has degraded, we cannot restore it to its previous quality. The transferred footage will look the same on the DVD as it does on the VHS tape. The most common problem you will see is the color slippage, reds and oranges will bleed outside of the objects they occupy. The good news is this color slippage will not get any worse once the footage is transferred to the digital format.

We do recommend that analog VHS tapes are transferred as soon as possible to preserve the quality of the footage as it appears now. The longer you wait to have those precious memories saved for your descendants, the lower the quality of the footage will be. We are the first generation that has the chance to truly save real-time events for the future. Don't let these wonderful videos degrade any further, save the memories today.

With fond memories,
The "We Shoot Video" Crew
